

Conference "Wellbeing and caring in changing times"

Bodø Norway, Nord University

APRIL 20.-21. APRIL 2017

Pre-conference April 19th 2017

The European Academy of Caring Science (EACS) is a collaboration of member institutions with the collective intention of taking forward caring science from a European perspective. The Academy affords an opportunity to work together as individuals or in groups under the auspices of the founding organizations with the aim of generating skills, values and beliefs in a concentrated effort to improve health and social care provision. Through this conference we intend to share our knowledge and understanding of 'caring' and how it will impact on the different levels of wellbeing and caring in changing times. The conference will focus on wellbeing at a) the individual (both personal and professional) and b) at the policy level of the population. Further information is available at www.eacs.nu

A top priority for Nordic College of Caring Science (NCCS) is to develop and disseminate caring science research and education both nationally and internationally through networking and collaboration. By participating in this conference, coordinated by Nord University, EACS and NCCS, you get involved in this development and learn more about transforming wellbeing and caring for people in a changing time, from a caring science perspective. Further information is available at www.nccs.nu

Program april 20 – 21 2017

The final programme is expected to be announced in November 2016.

Pre-conference april 19th 2017

There will be arranged a pre-seminar mainly for ph.d. students on the day before the conference with two- three masterclasses within the topic of the conference.

Members of NCCS – for more information confer email!